

ABSTRACT

This invention is designed as an accessory for vehicles which provides added road feel and reduced steering wander. It provides additional support to the sector shaft in a vehicle steering gear-box by adding an outboard support bearing below the pitman arm. It is typically comprised of an additional crossmember, replacement sector shaft nut, bearing assembly and mounting plates. The outboard bearing reduces play and flex in the sector shaft, and thus improves vehicle handling.